

Palestine - food for thought

"We have on this land all that makes life worth living"

Mahmoud Darwish Palestinian poet

Palestinians love their land

And Palestine - the Holy Land - is indeed a land of great beauty, rich natural resources, delicious food and a tradition of warm welcome and hospitality.

Yet Palestinians today live under Israeli military occupation, their land colonised, their rights denied, their heritage undermined and the wealth of their homeland used unjustly.

Join us to watch a cookery demonstration, share some Palestinian food, see a short film and celebrate Palestinian projects which keep food traditions alive and give voice to the Palestinian call for justice. We will reflect on all this in the light of the Christian faith.

- And much more besides: stall of Palestinian goods, recipe booklets and a discussion of ways we can all support the Palestinian cause in our everyday life.

An example of typically warm Palestinian hospitality

Date: Sunday 5 Feb, 5.30-7pm
